When the dog named Judy spotted her first sheep in her life, she did what comes naturally. The four-year-old dog set off racing after sleeping across several fields and, being a city animal, lost both her sheep and her sense of direction. The she ran along the edge of a cliff (悬崖), and fell 100feet, bouncing off a rock into the sea.

Her owner Mike Holden panicked and called the coastguard of Cornwall, who turn up in seconds. Six volunteers slid down the cliff with the help of a rope but gave up all hope of finding her after a 90-minute search.

Three days later, a hurricane hit the coast near Cornwall. Mr.Holden returned from his holiday upset and convince his pet was dead. He comforted himself with the thought she died in the most beautiful part of the country.

For the next two weeks, the Holdens were heartbroken. Then, one day the phone rang, and Steven Tregear, the coastguard of Cornwall,asked Holden if he would like his dog back.

A birdwatcher, armed with a telescope, found the pet sitting desperately on a rock. While he sounded the alarm, a student from Leeds climbed down the cliff to collect Judy.

The dog had initially been knocked unconscious (失去知觉的) but had survived by drinking water from a fresh stream at the base of the cliff. "The dog was very thin and hungry," Steven Tregear said. "It was a very lucky dog. She survived by a plenty supply of fresh water," he added.

It was, as Mr. Holden admitted, "a minor miracle (奇迹)." "

- C. Luck plays a vital role in Judy's survival.
- D. Holden care little when Judy was buried.

53. Which of the following can be the best title for the text?

- A. Miracle of the Coastguard B. Surviving in a Hurricane

The production of coffee beans is a huge, profitable business, but unfortunately, full-sun production is taking over the industry and bring a lot of damage. The change in how coffee is grown from shade-grown production to full-sun production endangers the very existence of certain animals and birds, and even endangers the world's ecological balance.

On a local level, the forests required by full-sun fields affects the area's birds and animals. The shade of the forest trees provides a home for birds and other species (物种) that depends on the trees' flowers and fruits. Full-sun growers destroy this forest home. As a result, many species are quickly dying out.

On a more global level, the destruction of the rain-forests for full-sun coffee fields also threatens (威胁) human life. Medical research often makes use of the forests' plants and animal life and the destruction of such species could prevent researchers from finding cures for certain diseases. Additionally, new coffee-growing techniques are poisoning the water locally, and eventually the world's underground water.

Both locally and globally, the continued spread of full-sun coffee plantations (种植园) could mean the destruction of the rain-forest ecology. The loss of shade tree is already causing a slight change in the world's climate, and studies show the loss of oxygen-giving trees also leads to air pollution and global warming. Moreover, the new growing techniques are contributing to acid (酸性的) soil conditions.

It's obvious that the way much coffee is grown affects many aspects of life, from local environment to global ecology. But consumers do have a choice. They can purchase shade-grown coffee whenever possible, although at a higher cost. The future health of the planet and mankind is surely worth more than an expensive cup of coffee.

54. What can we learn about the full-sun coffee production from Paragraph 4?

- A. It limits the spread of new growing techniques.
- B. It leads to air pollution and global warming.
- C. It slows down the loss of shade trees.
- D. It improve local soil conditions.

55. The purpose of the text is to _____.

- A.entertain B.advertise C.instruct D.persuade

56. Where does this text probably come from?

- A.An agricultural magazine B.A medical journal
- C.An engineering textbook D.A tourist guide

57. Which of the following shows the structure of the whole text?

(P:Paragraph)

Parents who help their children with homework may actually be bring down their school grades.Other forms of parental involvement, including volunteering at school and observing a child’s class,also fails to help,according to the most recent study on the topic.

The findings challenge a key principle of modern parenting (养育子女) where schools expect them to act as partners in their children’ s education. Previous generation concentrated on getting children to school on time,fed, dressed and ready to learn.

Keith Robinson, the author of the study,said,”I really don’t know if the public is ready for this but there are some ways parents can be involved in their kids’ education that leads to decline in their academic performance.One of the things that was consistently negative was parents’ help with homework ”Robinson suggested that may be because parents themselves struggle to understand the tasks. “They may either not remember the material their kids are studying now , or in some cases never learned it themselves,but they’re still offering advice.”

Robinson assessed parental involvement performance and one of the most damaging things a parent could do was to punish their children for poor marks. In general,about 20% of parental involvement was positive,about 45% negative and the rest statistically insignificant.

Common sense suggests it was a good thing for parents to get involved because “children with good academic success do have involved parents.”, admitted Robinson.But he argued that this did not prove parental involvement was the root cause of that success. “A big surprise was that Asian-American parents whose kids are doing so well in school hardly involved. They took a more reasonable approach,conveying to their children how success at school could improve their lives.”

58. The underlined expression “parental involvement”in Paragraph1 probably means_____.

- A. parents' expectation on children's health
 - B. parents' participation in their children's education
 - C. parents' control over children's life
 - D. parents' plan for children's future
59. What is the major finding of Robinson's study?
- A. Modern parents raise children in a more scientific way.
 - B. Punishing kids for bad marks is mentally damaging.
 - C. Parental involvement is not so beneficial as expected.
 - D. Parents are not able to help with children's homework
60. The example of Asian-American parents implies that children should _____.
- A. help children realize the importance of schooling
 - B. set a specific life goal for their children
 - C. spend more time improving their own life
 - D. take a more active part school management

第二节：（共5小题，每小题2分，满分10分）

根据短文内容，从下框的A-

F选项中选出能概括每一段主题的最佳选项，并在机读卡上涂黑。（选项中有一项为多余项。）

- A. The mistaken belief
- B. The need for tolerance
- C. Unpunctuality at dinners
- D. Punctuality and confidence
- E. Self-discipline and punctuality
- F. Avoid anxiety by being punctual

61.

There is the belief that, if you arrive at any appointment late, you will be considered important. This is a mistaken view. Being unpunctual, we are not respectful of others; we are interfering (扰乱) with another man's time. We must realize that keeping appointments or being punctual is a contract that is silently agreed and we are expected to respect this contract. It is only natural that we lose faith, trust and confidence in a person who is tardy (延迟的)。

62.

To be punctual one has to have self-discipline (自律), and the lack of it affects others. A school boy or girl is unpunctual because he or she does not have the necessary human virtue of self-discipline. It is also a mark of disrespect for a system or an institution. Unpunctual people seldom realize that their habit causes problems to others. A salesman who is not punctual may not make a sale if he arrives late for an appointment. If one is late for a job interview, it is not likely that he will get the job.

63.

Being punctual, we can avoid anxiety. Imagine the anxiety if you do not want to be considered unpunctual. You will be anxious if you set out for a dinner late. The person who sets out late might be careless in driving. He will ignore traffic rules. A traffic jam, flat tyres, etc. can delay him further. Happy and calm is the man who takes all these possibilities into consideration and arrives at the appointment either early or on time.

64.

Many of those who attend dinners are notorious(声名狼藉的) for unpunctuality. They ignore the appointed time and leave homes only after the fixed time. They are indifferent to the inconvenience caused to others. If the self-centered guest arrives late, the nine others at the table set for ten will have to wait. The host is put in an unpleasant situation and this man seldom thinks of the inconvenience caused to all---the waiters, the management staff, etc. It is necessary for us to think of others and be considerate to others.

65.

However, we cannot always be intolerant(无法容忍的) of tardiness, for ordinary living requires some tolerance. There can be a busy executive who fights to keep to his schedules. Such a person may be forgiven if he is late, but not those who are deliberately late to create impression.

In modern society, punctuality is a necessary virtue. It is a recognition of the importance of other people.
