On a stormy day last August, Tim heard some shouting. Looking out to the sea carefully, he saw a couple of kids in a rowboat were being pulled out to sea.

Two 12-year-old boys, Christian and Jack, rowed out a boat to search a football. Once they'd rowed beyond the calm waters, a beach umbrella tied to the boat caught the wind and pulled the boat into open water. The pair panicked and tried to row back to shore. But they were no match for it and the boat was out of control.

Tim knew it would soon be swallowed by the waves.

"Everything went quiet in my head," Tim recalls (回忆). "I'm trying to figure out how to swim to the boys in a straight line."

Tim took off his clothes and jumped into the water. Every 500 yards or so, he raised his head to judge his progress. "At one point, I considered turning back," he says. "I wondered if I was putting my life at risk." After 30 minutes of struggling, he was close enough to yell to the boys, "Take down the umbrella!"

"Let's aim for the pier (码头)," Jack said. Tim turned the boat toward it. Soon afterward, waves crashed over the boat, and it began to sink. "Can you guys swim?" he cried. "A little bit," the boys said.

Once they were in the water, Tim decided it would be safer and faster for him to pull the boys toward the pier. Christian and Jack were wearing life jackets and floated on their backs. Tim swam toward land as water washed over the boys' faces.

"Are we almost there?" they asked again and again. "Yes," Tim told them each time.

LONDON---A British judge on Thursday sentenced a businessman who sold fake (假冒的) bomb detectors (探测器) to 10 years in prison, saying the man hadn't cared about potentially deadly consequences.

It is believed that James McCormick got about $ 77.8 million from the sales of his detectors---which were based on a kind of golf ball finder---to countries including Iraq, Belgium and Saudi Arabia.

McCormick, 57, was convicted (判罪) of cheats last month and sentenced Thursday at the Old Bailey court in London.

"Your cheating conduct in selling a great amount of useless equipment simply for huge profit promoted a false sense of security and in all probability materially contributed to causing death and injury to innocent people," Judge Richard Hone told McCormick. "You have neither regret, nor shame, nor any sense of guilt."

The detectors, sold for up to $ 42, 000 each, were said to be able to find such dangerous objects as bombs under water and from the air. But in fact they "lacked any grounding in science" and were of no use.

McCormick had told the court that he sold his detectors to the police in Kenya, the prison service in Hong Kong, the army in Egypt and the border control in Thailand.

"I never had any bad results from customers," he said.

39. Why was McCormick sentenced to prison?

- A. He sold bombs.
- B. He caused death of people.
- C. He made detectors.
- D. He cheated in business.

40. According to the judge, what McCormick had done ____ .

- A. increased the cost of safeguarding
- B. lowered people's guard against danger

- C. changed people's idea of social security
- D. caused innocent people to commit crimes

41. Which of the following is true of the detectors?

- A. They have not been sold to Africa
- B. They have caused many serious problems.
- C. They can find dangerous objects in water.
- D. They don't function on the basis of science.

42. It can be inferred from the passage that McCormick ____ .

- A. sold the equipment at a low price
- B. was well-known in most countries
- C. did not think he had committed the crime
- D. had not got such huge profit as mentioned in the text

Home to me means a sense of familiarity and nostalgia (怀旧). It's fun to come home. It looks the same. It smells the same. You'll realize what's changed is you. Home is where we can remember pain, love and some other experiences: We parted here; My parents met here; I won three championships here.

If I close my eyes, I can still have a clear picture in mind of my first home. I walk in the door and see a brown sofa surrounding a low glass-top wooden table. To the right of the living room is my first bedroom. It's empty, but it's where my earliest memories are.

There is the dining room table where I celebrated birthdays and where I cried on Halloween---when I didn't want to wear the skirt my mother made for me. I always liked standing on that table because it made me feel tall and strong. If I sit at this table, I can see my favorite room in the house, my parents' room. It is simple: a brown wooden dresser lines the right side of the wall next to a television and a couple of photos of my grandparents on each side. Their bed is my safe zone. I can jump on it anytime---waking up my parents if I am scared or if I have an important announcement that cannot wait until the morning.

I'm lucky because I know my first home still exists. It exists in my mind and heart, on a physical property (住宅) on West 64th street on the western edge of Los Angeles. It is proof I lived,

I grew, and I learned.

Sometimes when I feel lost, I lie down and shut my eyes, and I go home. I know it's where I'll find my family, my dogs, and my belongings. I purposely leave the window open at night because I know I'll be blamed by Mom. But I don't mind, because I want to hear her say my name, which reminds me I'm home.

43. Why does the author call her parents' bed her "safe zone" (Paragraph 3) ?

- A. It is her favorite place to play.
- B. Her needs can be satisfied there.
- C. Her grandparents' photos are lined on each side.
- D. Her parents always play together with her there.

44. What can be learned from the passage?

- A. The old furniture is still in the author's first bedroom.
- B. The author can still visit her first physical home in Los Angeles.
- C. The author's favorite room in her first home is the dining room.
- D. Many people of the author's age can still find their first physical homes.

45. Sometimes when she feels lost, the author will ____ .

- A. open the window at night
- B. lie down in bed to have a dream
- C. try to bring back a sense of home
- D. go to Los Angeles to visit her mom

46. What is the author's purpose of writing this passage?

- A. To express how much she is attached to her home.
- B. To declare how much she loves her first house.
- C. To describe the state of her family.
- D. To look back on her childhood.

Fear may be felt in the heart as well as in the head, according to a study that has found a link between the cycles of a beating heart and the chance of someone feeling fear.

Tests on healthy volunteers found that they were more likely to feel a sense of fear at the moment when their hearts are contracting (收缩) and pumping blood around their bodies, compared with the point when the heartbeat is relaxed. Scientists say the results suggested that the heart is able to influence how the brain responds to a fearful event, depending on which point it is at in its regular cycle of contraction and relaxation.

Sarah Garfinkel at the Brighton and Sussex Medical School said, “Our study show for the first time that the way in which we deal with fear is different depending on when we see fearful pictures in relation to our heart.

The study tested 20 healthy volunteers on their reactions to fear as they were shown pictures of fearful faces. Dr. Garfinkel said, “The study showed that fearful faces are better noticed when the heart is pumping than when it is relaxed. Thus our hearts can also affect what we see and what we don’t see---and guide whether we see fear.”

To further understand this relationship, the scientists also used a brain scanner（扫描仪）to show how the brain influences the way the heart changes a person’s feeling of fear.

“We have found an important mechanism by which the heart and brain ‘speak’ to each other to change our feelings and reduce fear” Dr. Garfinkel said.

“We hope that by increasing our understanding about how fear is dealt with and ways that it could be reduced, we may be able to develop more successful treatments for anxiety disorders, and also for those who may be suffering from serious stress disorder.”

47. What is the finding of the study?

- A. One’s heart affects how he feels fear.
- B. Fear is a result of one’s relaxed heartbeat.
- C. Fear has something to do with one’s health.
- D. One’s fast heartbeats are likely to cause fear.

48. The study was carried out by analyzing ____ .

- A. volunteers’ heartbeats when they saw terrible pictures
- B. the time volunteers saw fearful pictures and their health conditions
- C. volunteers’ reactions to horrible pictures and data from their brain scans
- D. different pictures shown to volunteers and their heart-brain communication

49. Which of the following is closest in meaning to “mechanism” in Paragraph 6?

- A. Order
- B. System
- C. Machine
- D. Treatment.

50. This study may contribute to ____ .

- A. treating anxiety and stress better
- B. explaining the cycle of fear and anxiety

C. finding the key to the heart-brain communication

D. understanding different fears in our hearts and heads

A nurse of 78 this weekend celebrates 60 years of walking the wards---and she has no plans to retire. Jackie Reid was 18 when she started work in 1953---when the National Health Service (NHS) was just five years old---and is believed to be the oldest nurse in Britain.

The diabetes (糖尿病) specialist had to retire at 65 but returned as a nurse within two weeks and still does up to four seven-and-a-half hour shifts (轮班) each week.

Mrs. Reid said, "Nursing is hard if you do it correctly but I love my job. Working for the NHS has been my life. I have no other hobbies because I have worked all my life."

Jackie has worked at a number of different hospitals---including one in Scotland.

Her specialist field has been diabetes for the past 40 years. She retrained after her 12-year-old daughter Michelle developed the disease. She currently works at Southend Hospital, Essex.

Over the last 60 years she has treated tens of thousands of patients.

Jackie believes nursing should be protected from government cuts. She said, "There's lots of things I would say to the government. If you are going to get good care you have to have the resources (资源), you can't do it without enough money. They shouldn't need the cuts that there are in the NHS. It's hard now because there's a shortage of staff."

Jackie has lived alone in Grays, Essex, since her husband died three years ago.

The couple have two daughters Michelle, 50, and Karen, 54.

Jackie added, "My youngest daughter worries about me---she doesn't think I should work as much as I do. I constantly say 'don't worry about me, I'm fine', but she never believes me. I don't like the thought of giving it up and will try to keep going forever."
